Fireworks and carnival at park draw thousands

Despite hot, humid, rainy weather and competition from the VP Fair on the riverfront, the Granite City Park District's annual Fourth of July celebration was a success, according to Park District Superintendent Dave Nolan.

Nolan said the approximately 20,000 people attending the five-day celebration were generally well behaved and cooperative. "I was very happy with the people," he said.

The largest crowds came out for the money-saving matinees and Sunday night's Fourth of July fireworks display. During the festivities, Nolan said, there were no major incidents requiring police assistance, but "there were few minor problems."

Two elderly people passed out briefly from the heat, but those standing nearby assisted until relatives could be located. The spirit of cooperation made Nolan happy.

The crowd at the fireworks was startled when some rockets rained hot ashes into parts of the audience, but there were no serious injuries, authorities said. One ambulance did make a red light run from the fireworks scene, carrying an 18-year-old who apparently was injured in a fight.

The cooperation of Mother Nature, who allowed rain mostly during the early morning hours was greatly appreciated, Nolan said. The majority of the rain drained naturally from the carnival area, but left it muddy.

"The VP Fair 'took its share' of local people away from the local festivities, but we'll always be able to hold our own. Granite City probably has the biggest of the (local) carnivals," Nolan said.

There were 21 booths and 13 rides at the carnival and Nolan said that despite the weather, Ray Sweeney, operator of the rides, did a good job of breaking everything down and removing it from the grounds.

He said the area would be "back in order by Thursday" in time for scheduled baseball games. "It really went well," he said of the clean-up.

Uphold town collectors

By BILL WINTER of the Press-Record
Township tax collectors have the exclusive right to collect and distribute real estate taxes before Sept. 1 of each year, Chief Associate Judge Edward C. Ferguson ruled Thursday at a hearing in Edwardsville.

He voiced hope that County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus and town collectors will work out an arrangement prior to a formal court order early this week.

Edwardsville Collector Stephen J. Lopez sought an injunction against July or August collections by the treasurer.

The Edwardsville official was joined in the lawsuit by Nameki Township Collector Norman Hall and informally by officials of Chouteau, Granite City and Jarvis townships. Also with elected collectors are Venice, Marine, Helvetia, Saline, St. Jacob and Foster townships.

Lopez contended that townships can distribute tax money to governmental bodies faster than the county treasurer, while Henkhaus favored collection by the county. Thirteen of the 24 townships have no collectors.

Henkhaus called collection distribution by only a portion of the townships an expensive duplication of the county's effort. He said the county has the potential to earn $200,000 in interest on new tax revenue.

Collectors say the county government utilizes only a small fraction of the overall taxation, rather than being the major recipient, and that delays by the county prevent investments by school districts, cities and townships.

Many of the local entities have to borrow heavily while awaiting yearly tax receipts, they point out. The treasurer says the timing of the billing depends mainly on assessment officials, not on his office.

Judge Ferguson said a 1981 Illinois Supreme Court finding in a Peoria case gives town collectors the sole right to collect and distribute before Sept. 1.

He said his ruling should not be taken as a reflection on the wisdom of the existing law. Most Illinois counties no longer have township collectors.

Henkhaus said that, in this county, only Edwardsville, Venice and Granite City townships have been collecting taxes in recent years, and that he has never denied them the right to collect. He proposed that taxes continue to be collected both by his office and town collectors.

Lopez argued that bills being

Meet here on steel slump, cost cutting

Granite City Steel will hold meetings tomorrow, Thursday and Friday with all its hourly and salaried employees to update them on cost problems—and on efforts to "halt the liquidation of the steel industry" in America.

On the eve of eight private sessions scheduled for the ballroom of the former Washington Theater on 18th Street, GC Steel President James V. Stack said, "We have vast untapped resources in our workforce which can help strengthen the financial and competitive position of our plant."

"Only through a total effort on everyone's part can we expect to soon return to higher operating levels and improved financial returns," he concluded.

The Granite City Steel Division's parent firm, National Steel Corporation, lost $40 million in the first quarter of 1982 and second-quarter results also are expected to be disappointing due to low sales and high imports from foreign steelmakers.

Major firms including National Steel will bargain with the United Steelworkers at Pittsburgh this month to try to reduce some of the raises and costs previously agreed to for the third year of the present August 1980-August 1983 contract. Whatever concessions are agreed to by the negotiators will be subject to employees' approval.

A public statement issued Friday by a Granite City Steel spokesman said, "GC Steel confirmed today that it will hold meetings with all its hourly and salaried employees July 7, 8 and 9 to update them on the division, National Steel Corp. and the steel industry during this recession.

"The purpose of the meetings is to keep employees informed and to encourage them to consider ideas for improving costs."

National Steel has said it will no longer pay for new equipment at its Weirton, W. Va., steelmaking plant, which it is offering for sale to the Weirton employees.

Among the other National Steel facilities are Granite City Steel, which was acquired in 1971, and Great Lakes Steel, a mammoth Detroit area division headed by Robert McBride, a former Granite City Steel president.

Blame imports, price curbs

What has caused the weakening of America's former position of leadership among steel producing nations?

The chief management spokesman blames imports, and Uncle Sam.

He criticizes past and present federal policies in five respects—steel price limits, the environment, law violations by foreign firms, taxation, and the formation of capital to finance new technology and "hardware."

J. Bruce Johnston, chairman of steel companies' coordinating committee, makes these allegations.

1. "The steel industry has faced an intransigent unwillingness on the part of six consecutive federal administrations, three Democratic and three Republican, to enforce the trade laws of the U.S. against illegal trading practices in violation of our anti-dumping statute and our countervailing duty statute.

2. "The steel industry has faced a very harsh—and many times unwisely enforced—national environmental payback policy, which under the best circumstances devolves disproportionately and very expensively on this industry. Steel by its very nature consumes huge expenditures for pollution abatement.

3. "The steel industry has been compelled to operate against a history of formal and de facto price controls beginning in World War II

State budget 'stable'

It was 2:38 a.m. Friday, July 2, when Illinois legislators concluded their June 30 session, and Governor James H. Thompson—a Republican whose party controls the Illinois House—said the General Assembly achieved "a measure of fiscal stability."

Democrats, who control the Senate and whose state ticket Nov. 2 is led by Adlai Stevenson for governor, assailed the session as providing inadequate programs and as postponing a financial "day of reckoning" through a variety of special devices.

No new taxes were voted, and the state inheritance tax was ended. Revenue discussions were the primary topic during the session along with Equal Rights Amendment ratification, which failed in Illinois and nationally as of midnight June 30.

Labor leaders related that bills they opposed generally failed to pass. Illinois AFL-CIO President Robert Gibson said, "It was a defensive session. They were so busy 'reforming' other things they didn't get around to us."

Bike-A-Thon against cancer to be July 18

The Quad City Unit of the American Cancer Society will conduct its annual Bike-A-Thon on Sunday, July 18, at the Granite City Army Installation, according to the chairman, Joe Lucido. It will begin at 1 p.m. and end at 5 p.m.

Everyone is being invited to participate in the event with all proceeds going to the support of the American Cancer Society programs locally and throughout the state of Illinois.

Participants are being asked to pick up sponsor sheets at the Granite City Steel Credit Union office, 20th and Iowa streets, First Granite City National Bank in Granite City, Michel's Jewelry Store, 1842 State St., and Tony's Restaurant, 1500

Stack, center, president of the Granite City Steel division of National Steel Corporation. Receiving the watches are, from the left: Bill Webb of the Basic Oxygen Furnace shop, who has the greatest seniority in the Granite City plant; Al Bogovich, Cold Strip maintenance; Stack; Ed Forgus, Basic Oxygen Furnace shop; and Weldon Sherlock, who retired from the Blooming Mill after observing his 45th anniversary with the company. All four recipients are Granite City residents. These will be the only 45 year awards during 1982; Stack announced.

'Friends' benefit the theater

A membership drive is underway for Friends of Theater and Dance at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Since the drive began in mid-May, the organization has gained 45 new members and approximately $3,000 in membership fees, according to William Vilhauer, chairman of the department of theater and dance. The purpose of the Friends is to promote interest in and an appreciation of the arts of theater and dance, both on campus and in the larger community, Vilhauer said. Funds derived from membership dues and activities generated by the Friends are to be used to provide awards and scholarships for theater and dance majors; to underwrite special events, classes, workshops and seminars that allow students to grow in their professions; and to support other department-sponsored activities.

Patron fees for membership are as follows: benefactor, $500; sponsor, $250; and backer, $100. Regular membership fees are: family, $35; individual, $25; senior citizens (65 and over), $20; and students, $10.

Persons who become members before June 30 will receive a free subscription to the summer schedule of programs, including "A Flea in Her Ear" (July 7-10), "Barefoot in the Park" (July 21-24), and "South Pacific" (Aug. 5-7 and 12-14). They will also receive a free subscription for the 1982-83 theater productions, which begin in the fall. The season includes five stage productions.

GC Steel credit union is now 18th largest in Illinois

Scott Credit Union, serving personnel at Scott Air Force Base, ranked number seven among more than 1,200 Illinois credit unions in year-end 1981 assets, according to National Association.

The Granite City Steel Employees Federal Credit Union, the 18th largest in the state, reported $39.8 million in assets, with more than 23,000 members, $36.8 million in savings and $2.4 million in loans outstanding.

The Granite City Steel Employees Federal Credit Union has $20.6 million in assets. At East Alton, the Olin Employees Credit Union, 21st largest, reports $17.6 million in assets.

Laclede Alton Works Employees Credit Union, 33rd statewide, lists $13 million in assets while the Altonized Federal Credit Union of Owens Illinois Glass Co., Alton, ranks 48th with $9.4 million in assets.

The Shell Wood River Federal Credit Union, No. 60 in Illinois, has $8.2 million in assets.

All are members of the Illinois Credit Union League, which provides educational, legal and technical services to credit unions throughout the state.

COLLEGE APPOINTEES

State Community College of East St. Louis board selections by Gov. James R. Thompson include the Rev. John H. Rouse, East St. Louis, pastor of Mount Zion Baptist Church, reappointed; Billy-Belle Webber, East St. Louis, retired professor at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, replacing Edmund M. Juciewicz; and Charlie Lawrence Jr., East St. Louis, retired trustee officer for the East St. Louis School district, replacing Rufus Starks. The appointments pay expenses only, have terms ending June 30, 1987, and require Senate confirmation.

Effective July 1, Social Security recipients received a 7.4 percent boost in their benefits and American taxpayers got a 10 percent income tax cut—a tax reduction estimated at about $6 a week for a married worker with two children and yearly earnings of $24,000.

Illinois Democratic leaders are leaning toward Walter Mondale as presidential nominee in 1984, they indicated as national party meetings ended in Philadelphia last week.

Bus bill to rise —but not the fare

By PAIGE ST. JOHN

The cost of bus service for Madison County will rise more than 20 percent next year, but bus riders should see little change in the farebox price and route schedule.

Madison County Transit Board members have approved a draft contract with Bi-State Development Agency, signing their names to an increase in the transit district's monthly bill from Bi-State from $96,700 each month to $108,000.

Transit members expected an increase in the contract with Bi-State, but not quite that much; $1.3 million was budgeted in May to cover 1982-83 bus charges, but more may have to come from the district's coffers next year.

Transit district manager Susan Schold said the unbudgeted expense will easily be covered by budget reserves of $916,000.

She told transit board members that she had expected the increase from Bi-State, and was "surprised it wasn't more."

The $108,000 monthly charge is an estimated figure, and the transit district will not know exactly how much will be spent with Bi-State until the end of the next fiscal year in June 1983. The total could be slightly more or less than the projected bill.

Partly because of a healthy reserve and partly because there is need, the district decided to buy more service from Bi-State next year, in the form of a new route. Cost of the proposed Edwardsville to St. Louis express bus was not included in the contract figures.

The manager said she estimates the new route, which may be in service as soon as September, will cost the transit district an additional $6,000 each month.

The route, the Edwardsville Rapid, will collect riders from park-and-ride facilities in Edwardsville and Glen Carbon and then make a straight run to St. Louis.

She said the Edwardsville Rapid will take some pressure off the crowded Edwardsville-Collinsville bus to St. Louis.

Later, a Collinsville express bus to and from St. Louis might be examined, she said; the route change depends on the amount of riders traveling between Edwardsville and Collinsville.

Attendance incentives sought by Venice educators

By ANGELA GRUPAS
of the Press-Record

Past problems at Venice High School with attendance, tardiness and the condition of the school as well as development of projects for the new school year were discussed by the Venice School Board Monday night.

John Rush, principal of Venice High School, presented a report to the board, containing major topics that need attention before the next school year begins.

The attendance rate has fallen since last year, including the number of teachers' absences. Rush stated, "Some of the teachers used too many conference-workshop days, which allowed substitutes to teach the children. The students need their normal teachers, not a substitute."

Board members discussed many alternatives to the growing student attendance problem. "We will have to go back to calling the parents and informing them of the attendance problem. This was enacted last year, but proved to be time consuming," Principal Rush stated. It also was suggested to have required parent conferences for parents of students who are chronically absent.

At the previous meeting, a new tardy policy was suggested. During the 1981-82 school year, students having more than three tardy days in a six-week period were subject to suspension. But, the policy was not strictly enforced and students were having seven, eight, or nine tardy days before they were ever suspended.

"Using suspension which keeps the student out of school is not a good punishment. Counseling and openly discussing the problem with the student might prove to be helpful," Rush suggested.

There has been a precise cutoff because, when students begin to see no punishment given to those who are tardy four times, they begin to push their luck. And, with this policy, they normally do avoid trouble."

Although the attendance problem is reaching higher and higher peaks throughout the years, only a minor percentage of the students are abusing the rules, it was stressed.

Also included in the principal's report was the expected increase in enrollment for the upcoming school year.

Rush also noted, "The start of the Honor Society encouraged many to improve their grade point averages and the activity will be continued throughout the school years."

The newly-developed Co-op program did very well, with eight students placed in jobs, it was noted.

The regular meeting began with Board President Jack Tolliver presiding. Board members approved an $8,000 bill for textbooks and an $8,900 bill for school supplies for the 1982-83 school year. It was mentioned that the price for the textbooks decreased since last year.

Superintendent Vickers asked the board to approve of a less expensive way that will be used on a trial basis throughout the school building. All were in favor.

All monthly bills, payroll and financial statements of the Venice schools and Venice-Lincoln Technical Center were approved. The board also approved the transfer of $4,500 from the working cash fund to the education fund, where money is needed the most.

The members agreed to abolish the working cash fund at this point and then re-establish the fund at a later date, preferably in September.

Various bids were received by Board Secretary George Wade. All bids opened for cafeteria supplies and were turned over to the purchasing committee for study and a recommendation.

Presently, the superintendent's spending limitation is $100 without board approval, but with the current money situation, Vickers asked the members to allow him $200 and an increase from 16 cents to 20 cents for his mileage reimbursement. This was approved unanimously.

In other business, the local Junior Achievement requested the use of Venice High School for a meeting place once a week. The board allowed the JA meetings for a trial period of 90 days, but noted that there is a need for adult supervision by a Venice staff member, because the students involved in the program are from the 9 through 12 grade level, not the normal junior and senior level.

Summer repair and maintenance bids were opened and were rejected by the board because all exceeded the $20,000 limit. The members agreed to authorize another advertisement for new bids for asphalt.

The bid submitted by Smith Painting Company in the amount of $4,650 to paint a school building was approved by the members.

In other business, six requests for the use of school buses between July 9 and Aug. 6 were made by the assistant recreational director. The summer program is available for those in the district and buses will be needed to transport the children to Grant's Farm, Six Flags and other areas of interest. All members approved of the requests.

The replacement for Duane Rankin, director of Venice-Lincoln Technical Center, was named at the last meeting. Peter Ponce assumed the position after graduation exercises were held Tuesday.

Board member Gerald Cline was absent from Monday night's regular Venice School Board meeting.

Glass recycling gains new high in Illinois

A record 418 million glass containers were recycled in Illinois in 1981, according to Glass Packaging Institute (GPI).

The trade association for glass bottle makers says eight Illinois glass plants recycled 46 percent more containers than the year before.

In total, 235 million pounds of glass bottles were crushed and melted down to make new bottles, thereby reducing litter and solid waste burdens in the state.

This trend of increased glass recycling is also apparent throughout the United States, where a record three billion glass containers were recycled in 1981. This new high, the trade association reports, represents an 11.2 percent rise in glass recycling over 1980.

These dramatic increases reflect the commitment of the glass industry to promote recycling to protect the environment, conserve natural resources, and reduce energy consumption in the glass manufacturing process," said GPI President William W. Sadi.

More than 100 glass container manufacturing plants produce new containers in part from recycled glass. In addition, there are thousands of collection points throughout the United States that accept or pay the public for used glass containers. In fact, hundreds of independent recyclers throughout the nation are presently paying consumers up to one-and-a-half cents a pound for used glass.

These multi-product recycling centers take clean, color-separated glass containers and crush them into small bits known as cullet, which they store and ultimately transport to glass manufacturing plants.

Although the primary components of glass—sand, soda ash and limestone—are in abundant domestic supply, cullet has long been an integral part of the glass manufacturing process because of its economic advantage over virgin raw materials.

The use of cullet also provides energy benefits. Since cullet melts faster than virgin materials, its use allows manufacturers to lower the temperature of their furnaces and, thus, decrease energy usage and emissions.

Glass is being recycled at Owens-Illinois plants in Alton and Streator; at the Ball plant in Dolton; at the Anchor-Block plant in Gurnee; at the Hillsboro plant in Hillsboro; at the Kerr plant in Plainfield; at the Thatcher plant in Streator; and at the Pierce plant in Lincoln.

For a free booklet which explains how to recycle glass, write: Glass Packaging Institute, Communications Department, 2000 L St., N.E., Suite 815, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Special examination of some tax returns

Tax returns are chosen by a variety of methods for examinations to verify items like income, deductions or exemptions. The Internal Revenue Service pointed out this week.

Most returns are selected by computer program called the Discriminatory Function System (DFS). The program assigns numerical weights to the entries on returns and produces a score for each return.

Those returns with higher scores, the IRS explained, have a greater probability of containing some errors.

The returns with high scores are examined manually, and those considered most likely to contain errors are selected for examination.

Returns may also be selected as a part of a random sample under the Taxpayer Compliance Measurement Program (TCMP), which is the IRS enforcement and research activity designed to measure and evaluate taxpayers compliance characteristics. Information obtained through TCMP is used to update and improve the DFS.

The remaining returns are selected by other established selection methods, such as screening claims for refund of previously paid taxes, and matching information documents issued for income such as wages, interest, dividends and interest earned.

A tax examination does not suggest a suspicion of dishonesty or criminal liability, according to the IRS.

While most examinations do result in increased tax liability, many cases are closed without any change, and in others the taxpayer receives a refund.

Participants in the evening's program were Thebeau, Maxwell, Evers, Hassler, David Ferrante and Cristina Plata, a Venezuelan student who is completing a year's study in Granite City. Thebeau, son of a past Madison-Venice Rotary president, the late Harry Thebeau, said the new international president's theme will be "building bridges of friendship throughout the world."

Karandjeff and Eric Robertson, a guest, were recognized as graduates of the Leadership St. Louis program.

Guest speaker was Mrs. Carolyn Losos, director of Leadership St. Louis and president of the Girl Scout Council of Greater St. Louis. She discussed volunteerism here and nationally, and said service by volunteers can add quality to organizations that the groups could obtain in no other way.

NLRB cites Michigan Metals

The Michigan Metal Processing Corporation, 1425 State St., which is engaged in the processing, non-retail sale and distribution of steel coils and related products, violated sections of the National Labor Relations Act by threatening employees with discharge because they filed a complaint with the Occupational Safety and Health Administration of the U.S. Department of Labor, an administrative law judge has found.

Judge Walter H. Maloney, rendered his decision last month following a National Labor Relations Board hearing and ordered the company to post a notice concerning allegations made by Fred L. Crowe, the plant's shop steward, that maintenance supervisor Don Ankin, threatened to fire employees after OSHA officials inspected the plant.

Crowe and Ankin reportedly said, in the presence of Crowe and Weisbrodt, that "a couple of guys were going to be fired" over the OSHA inspection.

Ankin also told Crowe that "Rich's (Weisbrodt's) smart mouth (is) going to get him in trouble," according to a report filed about the incident.

The company entered a formal denial of the allegation, maintaining that Ankin was not a supervisor.

Boy stabbed, man charged

Michael D. Wallace, 15, of the 2015 Washington Ave. apartment building was stabbed severely at 9:20 p.m. Thursday the parking lot behind the building.

A knife caused a half-inch-long wound in his back and the blade entered the right chest area, causing a lung puncture. He was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Although suffering extensive loss of blood, he walked and was partly carried by an acquaintance to the nearby hospital.

Jeffrey S. Perryman, 22, of 2015 Washington was arrested for aggravated battery.

Authorities quoted witnesses as saying the two argued and fought outdoors, but the victim declined to discuss the circumstances of his wound.

Report of fatal accident charged

Initial reports issued by authorities concerning the death of Roy Shambaugh Wednesday when he was struck by an auto driven by Robert McDonald of Granite City on Highway 111 were inaccurate.

It had been reported originally that two drivers, traveling in opposite directions, turned on their bright headlights in order to alert Shambaugh, who was walking on the highway.

McDonald, however, told the Press-Record that there was only one automobile driving with its lights on.

He said a woman was driving in the southbound lane of Highway 111 and saw Shambaugh walking on the highway. She turned on her car's brights, but he disappeared on the side of the road.

The woman turned her car around in an attempt to find Shambaugh and was driving behind McDonald when the accident occurred. "I was blinded by her bright lights. I didn't even see him when he walked right out in front of my car," McDonald said.

He also said that there was a passenger in his car at the time, but she was uninjured. Initial reports said that McDonald was alone when the accident happened. He attributed the error in the report at least partially to "all the confusion."

A state police spokesman said the department is aware of the change in the original report.

ARRESTED ON ALTON WARRANT
Tom Batey, 1687 State St., was arrested at 4 p.m. Saturday on a warrant issued by the Alton Police Department alleging failure to appear in court on a traffic violation. He was arrested at 1323 Edwardsville Road, where he was babysitting for his three children.

The children, ages 7, 8 and 9, were taken to Children and Family Services until their mother could be located.

'A Flea In Her Ear' to open at SIUE Wednesday

University Theater at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville kicks off at Edwardsville on Wednesday, July 7, with a production of Georges Feydeau's farce, "A Flea In Her Ear." The show will play Thursday through Saturday, July 8 to 10.

All performances will be presented in the Communications Building Theater on the Edwardsville campus, beginning at 8:15 p.m.

"Feydeau, the internationally known master of the farce form, has collected together in 'Flea' the funniest group of characters ever to meet in hilarious confusion," Lynn Kluth, professor of theater and dance at the university said.

Worked around the age-old formula of jealous husbands and wives wondering who's doing what with whom, the action is filled from start to finish with mistaken identities, near misses, and comic knock-outs. As would be expected, all ends well, but not before the audience has been weakened by sustained laughter, Professor Kluth said.

The cast is headed by Jeffrey Matthews of Toledo, Ohio, who plays the dual role of Victor-Emanuel Chandel, the misunderstood husband, and Poche, the drunken porter. Kari Ely of St. Louis plays the jealous wife, Yvonne, and Doyle Reynolds of New Baden portrays Camille Chandel, the secretary who has a most peculiar speech impediment.

Supporting roles are played by Mary Beth Russo (Lucienne) of Boston, Mass.; Catherine Fitzgerald (Antoinette) of Fort Worth, Tex.; Debra Lynn Wickes (Olympe) of University City, Mo.; Randy Kleffner (Hilstantia) of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Ron Bohmer (Tourne) of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Shots fired at parked vehicle; two arrested

Two shots were fired from a handgun toward a 1974 auto parked in the 2900 block of Buxton Avenue, causing damage to the vehicle at 8:30 p.m. Thursday. Owner of the car is Robert Clark, 2908 Buxton.

Police followed a pickup truck along Buxton, Faith, Myrtle, Victory and Nameoki Road, halting it at Nameoki and Edwardsville roads and arresting the two occupants.

Debra Ray, 27, of 904 Alton Ave., Madison, and Rebecca R. Furtak, 24, of 4004 Kirkpatrick Homes were charged with unlawful use of a weapon. Officers seized a .22-caliber pistol.

BURGULARY PROBATION

Blood drive July 6

Persons in the community, as well as Belleville Area College students, faculty and staff, are encouraged to participate in an American Red Cross blood drive at the BAC main campus, July 6 at 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville.

The drive is sponsored by the BAC Medical Assistant program, Student Activities and the Red Cross.

According to the Red Cross the need is greater at this time of the year as it is more difficult to get donations during the summer and there is an increase of accidents during the Fourth of July weekend.

All healthy persons 17 and older may donate blood. Donors over 66 need a recent health statement from their doctor, dated within four weeks. A person may donate blood every eight weeks.

The after effects are minimal because the body replaces the liquid portion of the blood quickly. Less than a pint is taken and since the average person has 10 to 12 pints the small loss is easily afforded.

The BAC blood drive will be from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in rooms 1410 and 1411. Registration for the drive will be Tuesday and Wednesday, June 22 and 23, and Tuesday and Wednesday, June 29 and 30 outside the cafeteria at the BAC main campus.

For information, call BAC Student Activities, 235-2700, extension 205, or Rose Hall, 235-2700, extension 355.

In Retrospect

Oldest player says district league is most fun

By MIKE MOORE
of the Press-Record

"I plan to keep on playing on my softball team as long as I don't get hurt or as long as I don't hurt the team," said Lester Thompson, the senior member of Hook's softball team.

"I've played for five years with Hook's team and I don't plan on stopping now," said Lester Thompson, the 61-year-old softball player that has been titled "a legend in his own time."

Thompson is the oldest player in the over 35 slow-pitch softball league in Granite City's Park District.

"Being on this team is the most fun I've ever had in sports," commented Thompson.

Born in Scottsborough, Ala., and raised in Granite City, Thompson has played on many basketball, baseball, softball and bowling teams. He also was involved in World War II in the Army Air Corps, now the Air Force. Thompson flew a B-17 called the Tempest Turner named after Lana Turner.

"I flew 19 missions on my plane. It wasn't at all like the movies though, there is no glamour involved. We simply had a job to do and we did it," said the Thompson. An exact replica of his B-17 hangs in his basement bringing

"The players don't bring their gloves anymore, they bring their briefcases."

back proud memories of his flying days.

Before the war, Thompson played on his first basketball team at junior high. The team was called the Lizards. To this day he wished the team had been named something else. He says it wasn't sophisticated enough.

When Thompson was 16 years old he played on a men's baseball team where most of the other players were 20 and 21 years old. "Our team was called the 18th Street Stars and we played during the Depression. Everyone was looking for something cheap to do, so our games brought in some pretty good crowds," remembered Thompson.

"Basketball used to be my favorite sport, but it has gone away from the game I used to love," said Thompson.

"Nowadays you have to be a freak to play. The players are bigger, stronger and faster than any team in my days."

Now Thompson says he likes pro football the best. He is the proud holder of season tickets to the St. Louis Cardinals games. "Yes, I'm a Big Red fan!" stated Thompson. He says he never misses a game unless he is sick or on vacation.

As for major league baseball, Thompson says he'd rather not even bother with it anymore because "they just mess around."

"The players don't bring their gloves anymore, they bring their briefcases," says Thompson.

He recalls falling asleep at one game while he waited for the pitcher and the catcher to coordinated the pitcher's delivery to the plate.

The team he plays with now, he says, is much different.

"My team is a fair team and everyone gets to play. Sometimes Lynn Cook, the coach, will put someone in at the end of the game or during a difficult situation of the game. Cook's got guts, but so far our team has been doing well," said Thompson. Hook's is currently 9-3.

Thompson usually plays any position open on his team, but his favorite is first base. Thompson is always telling Cook that it is not necessary to put him in just to be fair and Cook always replies the same, "You know that isn't how we play, Thompson!"

"Sure our team loves to win, but not at the cost of hurting someone's feelings. We don't play like that. When someone makes a mistake we have fun with them and make them buy a pitcher of beer," laughed Thompson.

According to Thompson, many people do not recognize the name Lester Thompson. Most people refer to him as "Tombstone." "It's not because I'm hard as Granite or anything like that. One day a friend of mine just said that Tombstone was a good name for me and ever since that day, people everywhere call me tombstone," said Thompson. "I still to this day get letters from people asking me 'what does tombstone stand for?'"

Thompson says that most of his family is pretty understanding about "a man his age" playing softball, but sometimes, he says, his daughter Leslie gets a little worried about him. "I don't see why people would be against me playing, all I'm doing is having a good time and getting a little exercise," Thompson also works out in his yard for more exercise.

"I try to go to every practice I can because I need to stay in shape. Since we only play once a week, it's very easy to slip out of shape if you miss a practice or a game," said Thompson.

Thompson loves all types of athletics, participating or just spectating. His favorite participating sport today is golf.

World War II was an important part of Thompson's life. He came out of the war with a ranking of first lieutenant and many memories.

"I had the most fun ever flying a mission into Holland to deliver food. We were actually brainwashed into wanting to deliver that food. It was extremely dangerous, but we were destined to deliver it," recalled Thompson.

"I have been very fortunate in my life. I've been always had wonderful people as friends and I've played on some pretty good teams," recalled Thompson. Thompson has been involved with teams that have won championships. Demolays, Curtis Wright and McDonald Douglas were baseball teams that won championships while Thompson played with them.

Thompson has also coached little league softball. He coached and managed his sons Lester Jr. and Keith's teams.

"I like slow pitch better than fast pitch," said Thompson. "More people get involved in slow pitch, unlike fast pitch where all you need is a good pitcher, first baseman, third baseman and catcher."

"I've never had as much fun on any other team as I've had playing on Hook's team. The most fun comes after game when we all go out and tell our stories," said Thompson.

Thompson admits that his better days are gone but he says, "No one on my team is a prima donna and we don't cry when we don't win, that's why I'll keep on playing as long as they'll have me."

Freeburg dampens G-Carbon's homecoming

By NANCY WEILL
of the Press-Record

The Glen Carbon American Legion baseball team had a homecoming of sorts Saturday when it played Freeburg in Mitchell. Most of the team members started their baseball careers on Mitchell diamonds in the Khoray league. "We're bringing them home," Joe Barrington, Glen Carbon manager, said before the game.

But Freeburg, probably not realizing or caring that it was Glen Carbon's homecoming, dampened the jovial spirit by taking the game 7-2.

The Glen Carbon team has not had an easy season, but generally team members manage to laugh a bit after the games. Not this time, however. The team has been playing better with a recent win over Tri-City and a 7-0 victory over Highland last Thursday.

Paul Barrington pitched well with good control during the Highland shut out, which was, incidentally, umpired by the same man who called the game against Tri-City and helped the astronomical walk total with his small strike zone. This fact is much to Barrington's, and his teammates' credit, as they had six hits during the game including a homerun by Vince Mitchell, who leads the team at bat.

But it cannot always go so well, as the Glen Carbon players have certainly come to realize. Perhaps the biggest part of the team's problem comes from a lack of practice. Most of the players hold jobs which take a vast amount of time and energy. Therefore, practice sessions have essentially been de-emphasized. Kinks are worked out during games.

It was obvious Saturday that practice would have helped.

Legion Baseball

"We didn't play well defensively," Larry Corey, Glen Carbon coach said. Two errors in the third helped Freeburg bring in three more runs to match the second inning. With one more run in the fourth inning, Freeburg took the game away from Glen Carbon.

As much as defensive problems hurt, so did Glen Carbon's lack of hits, which totaled three to Freeburg's seven. Mitchell had two of the hits for Glen Carbon. He now has a .390 average.

"They seemed to have some pretty good hitters," Corey said of Freeburg. Indeed, all seven of Freeburg's hits were to the outfield. Most of them were well-placed grounders which defied any infielder's attempts at making a play and kept pitcher Sam Tate on his toes. Glen Carbon started the game by taking the lead in the first when Carl Leumann walked and crossed the plate when Scott Corey was tagged out by the Freeburg pitcher.

In the fifth, Brian Corey scored on a clean double by Mitchell. Corey reached on a throwing error by the Freeburg rightfielder.

But during the sixth and seventh innings, Freeburg defensively ruined Glen Carbon's homecoming.

Tate, who has split time with Barrington and pitched in most of Glen Carbon's games, was replaced by Dan Stearns in the sixth. Stearns has been out most of the season with a back injury. Pitching has been a big problem for Glen Carbon.

"There were a lot of games where he (Stearns) would have made the difference," Corey said.

Corey, who called it "demoralizing" to have gotten only three hits against Freeburg, said he felt the team was moving toward "respectability" with the win over Highland.

He said a win against Freeburg, taking the team's record to 4-10, "would have been so much better."

Glen Carbon has a home game scheduled today against Alton at 6 p.m.

The mound for the Civics, but had to be rescued by Vince Broderick in the sixth frame, who fanned one batter to then give way to Deml.

Southwestern Civics split Fourth pair

By AL BARNES
For the Press-Record

EDWARDSVILLE — The Southwestern Illinois Civics split a baseball doubleheader over the Fourth of July weekend with an invading club from Conway County, Arkansas, dropping the opener, 12-5, and rebounding to win the second game, 8-6.

The split gave the Civics a 13-13 record while the Arkansas State semi-pro team defending championship are now 18-9 for the season.

Wednesday night, the Civics will try to up their season to a winning pace when they take on the West County (St. Louis) Browns in a single, nine-inning game at Maryville College beginning at 7:30 p.m.

However, if the litigation over the use of lights at Maryville hasn't been decided, Civics' player-manager, Bobby Hughes, is seeking to line up a fill-in game with a Mont-Claire League team for the same night.

In the Civics' first game loss to Conway County, it was a battle of home runs and the Arkansas team won it, three-to-one. Russ Bivens hit back-to-back homers for Conway while Frank Selfo connected for their third.

The Civics' catcher, Rusty Hilgenkamp, blasted the loser's fourbagger in the sixth.

Tom Hanson was the loser for the Civics in the first game.

Lanky Jerry Deml came on in the sixth frame in the second game in relief and was credited with the 8-6 victory. Bill Stole, one-for-three, drove in three runs for the Civics.

Connors' second Wimbledon dream comes true

What a Wimbledon finale!

What better way to celebrate America's anniversary than with the fireworks that rocketed from Wimbledon's most sacred center court. For more than four and a half hours, John McEnroe and Jimmy Connors, America's number one and number two singles tennis players, exchanged gunfire at center court. It was the first time since 1975 that two "Yanks" battled in a championship singles match in the prestigious English tennis tournament. Oddly enough, Connors was one of the athletes then, as he attempted to defend his Wimbledon championship of a year earlier against Arthur Ashe.

For Connors his 3-6, 6-3, 6-7, 7-6, 6-4, was particularly welcomed. The former (East St. Louis) Assumption High School standout had picked up his second Wimbledon victory in his lengthy tennis career.

Not only was it his second victory in the world's most prestigious tennis tournament, but he nearly tied Big Bill Tilden's record of winning the tournament with the most years in between. Tilden won the tournament in 1921, and came back to win it again in 1930, a lapse of nine years. Connors last stood at center court with the coveted Wimbledon Cup in 1974, posting an eight year lapse.

Connors, or Smokin' Jimmy as he was called for his ability to strike the chalk lines at will, won Wimbledon against the odds.

Pushing 30 years of age, Connors defeated McEnroe, the world's top racketman and a man six years his junior.

With the aide of a new serve, that incidentally did not render him a service ace while posting 13 double faults, Connors attacked the net at will, working for a passing shot to either of McEnroe's flank.

Connors achieved his second Wimbledon victory because he changed his game—a game his adversaries had long ago learned to combat—and he was the more aggressive of the two—charging the net, gambling against the best in the world.

It was an odd Wimbledon tournament this year. Mostly because of the persistent rains that fell shortening much of the play, but also because Bjorn Borg, the world's number two tennis player, was not permitted to compete in the tournament because he did not play in enough "rated tournaments." That criteria has since been changed by Wimbledon officials.

With Borg out of the tournament, with or without Connors' new "game plan," Connors' chances of winning the tournament improved immensely. Until McEnroe's dawning, Borg had always been Connors' obstacle in his quest for the Wimbledon Cup.

Despite McEnroe's loss, there was one bright spot for the 23-year-old tennis great at the tournament. After his infamous tantrums at center court last year, he was denied membership to the Wimbledon Hall of Champions. Sunday, the same body of Wimbledon officials that denied McEnroe membership a year ago, granted the 23-year-old American an honorary membership.

DREW KARANDJEFF

President
Q. I understand the safety advantage in money market certificates, but what is the yield advantage of a certificate over a money market fund investment?

A. An actual case history will answer your question. In the 12-month period ending March 31, 1981 a bank money market certificate would have yielded an average 13.83% for the preceding year. Purchased April 1, 1980, and paying an interest rate of 15.7% annually, it would have been renewed September 30, 1980 at 11.968% thereby achieving this attractive average. On the other hand, a survey of 77 money market funds for the same period indicates an average yield of 12.7%. The lowest paid 10.9% while the highest paid 13.9%. Further, investment in a certificate on October 31, 1980, and re-investment or roll-over on April 1, 1981, at the end of its 182-day term would have yielded an average return of 12.413% over the twelve-month period. In this example, the advantage is obvious even without considering the protection of your investment in a bank money market certificate.

Shower honors bride-elect

A bridal shower feted Vicki Martin last week at Concordia Parish Hall, hosted by aunts of the prospective groom, Mrs. Dorothy Phelps and Mrs. Glynnis Audison.

A lavender color theme dominated the flower and candle arrangements that decorated the food, guest and gift tables.

Thirty-one guests played games and were served at the buffet luncheon. Attendance prizes were presented to Betty Poeling, Robin Martin, maid of honor and M. Barker.

The couple will be united in marriage on July 24 in an outdoor wedding at the 1994 Worlds Fair Pavilion in Forest Park, followed by a reception also to be held at the park.

Miss Martin is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Martin, Pasadena Hills, Mo. and her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Phelps Sr., Granite City.

Army reunion in Vermont

Damian Caffrey Sr., of Granite City, attended the 19th Annual Reunion of U.S. Army Company F., 863rd Regiment, 91st Division which served during World War II. The reunion was held in Shelburne, Vt.

The unit fought in Italy from July 1944 until the end of the war.

Each year a different member sponsors the reunion in his home town. The 1983 reunion will be in Chattanooga, Tenn., and in 1984 the reunion will be held in Mount Prospect, Ill., the local veteran announces.

Fifteen members and 30 guest and wives attended the social event.

It takes more than love to make good foster parents

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

Any parent must possess special qualities in order to fulfill a child's needs. Parents must be educators, counselors and friends. Some parents are very good at what they do, others not quite so conscientious.

Foster parents must have all the same qualities as a natural parent, and a great deal more. Foster parents must provide love, care and affection," Rick Paccin, director of resource development for Madison County Catholic Charities, said. What makes the situation special is that foster parents must provide love to children who are not their own and who may, on any given day, be taken from the surrogate parents and returned to their natural home.

Foster care is temporary and provides abused and neglected children with the family atmosphere they desperately need, but for whatever reason, cannot have with their natural parents. Occasionally, one or both parents suffer from alcoholism or any of a variety of disabling physical or mental diseases which inhibit their ability to provide for their children. Foster children may come from homes in which the other parent has left or is deceased. Because the other parent is under emotional strain, or must work to replace the lost income of the other, there is not enough time for children.

Under such circumstances, the child can be placed as a ward of the state and moved to a foster home. Some homes are for emergency use. The child is taken from the natural parents and moved immediately into an available home atmosphere. Other foster parents are licensed by the state and can provide months or years of care for the surrogate children.

Linda Nelson, who is single and 33, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gavin, are licensed foster parents in Granite City. The one all-encompassing trait these people possess is the ability to consider foster children as their own and provide the same love and guidance.

Miss Nelson's foster parenthood started in November when she was given custody of a 17-year-old boy who had been through seven foster homes in two years. A pretty woman who smiles and laughs frequently, Miss Nelson gives the appearance of one who thinks things through very carefully.

Her parents, she said, were foster parents. The concept and purpose of foster parenting was nothing new to her, but becoming the single mother of a 17-year-old was.

Miss Nelson contacted Catholic Charities about the possibility of becoming a foster parent. She thought that she was, perhaps, not eligible because of her marital status or age. She was wrong.

Catholic Charities does not discriminate because of race, sex or religion. The only stipulation is that foster parents must be able to provide for children and give them a healthy home environment. Potential foster parents must take physical examinations and fill out questionnaires.

Single foster parenting is relatively new, but, in Miss Nelson's case, has worked extremely well. "I wanted a little one," she said and smiled at her foster daughter, who calls her foster mother by her first name. There is a unique situation in that they have become best friends.

The Gavins have a more traditional relationship with their five foster sons. For 13 years, the Gavins, who are a licensed home on Washington Avenue and a licensed farm near O'Fallon, have provided care for eight different foster children. Surprisingly, the foster sons they now have look like natural brothers (two of them are).

Another generation of foster parenting has been born to her, but becoming the single mother of a 17-year-old was.

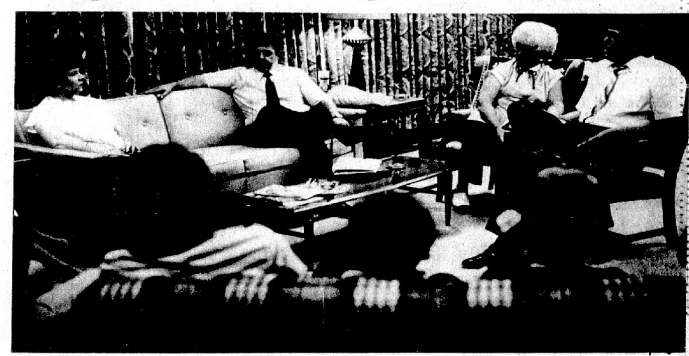

considered a grandson and treated just as their other grandchildren are. The Gavins have raised three of their own children, one of whom is handicapped and resides with his parents.

Mrs. Gavin seemed to be the family spokesperson. While her husband kept the little grandson in line, Mrs. Gavin chatted amiably. A gregarious woman, Mrs. Gavin makes no secret of her disdain for those who enter into foster parenting "because they think they'll get rich."

There is a monthly stipend paid per child in order to alleviate some of the costs, but it is no where close to providing all a child needs. Of course, many foster parents provide more. Miss Nelson's daughter and the Gavins' sons were all well-dressed and obviously well-fed. Not one of the seven children in the present, including the grandson, looked as if they wanted for anything.

Miss Nelson and Mrs. Gavin both admit that foster parenting costs more than the state provides, but neither of them are in it for the money.

Mrs. Gavin worked as a nurse for many years and decided, after seeing so many neglected and abused children in the emergency room, that she would one day become a foster parent. Foster parenting "has done wonders for him," she said and gestured to the other room where her husband could be heard talking to the grandson.

SPECIAL PEOPLE. Linda Nelson tells her caseworker the trials and tribulations of her life as foster parent of a 17-year-old girl. According to Miss Nelson, there are few shortcomings and the experience has been "very good." Pictured from left are Miss Nelson, Dave Daley, caseworker, Mrs. Charles Gavin, a foster parent, and Rick Paccin, director of resource development for Madison County Catholic Charities. Others of Mrs. Gavin's five foster sons are pictured in the foreground.

The Gavins and Miss Nelson, like other foster parents, are not left on their own to care for the children. Case workers are required by the state to visit the homes at least once a month. David Daley and Mary Alice Beardslee are the two caseworkers for Catholic Charities in the area.

As Daley will attest, the case workers become well-acquainted with their clients and each particular situation. "We spend a lot of time talking on the telephone (in addition to the visits)," Mrs. Gavin said. It is the caseworker's responsibility to assess each situation and make certain the children are being given the best possible care. It also is important that the children are treated exactly as if they are the family's natural children, Daley said. Miss Nelson and the Gavins have fulfilled this aspect quite well. All of the Gavins foster children call them "Mom" and "Dad." The five foster sons of the Gavins also relate to each other as brothers.

"That's one of the first things they do," Mrs. Gavin said of the children accepting them as parents. There is a great deal of love given by both Miss Nelson and the Gavins to their foster children. Miss Nelson and her foster daughter share most everything they do. While her foster daughter tells Miss Nelson she loves her, "I need to do it more often," she said. And all the Gavins' foster sons are extremely affectionate. "These kids are important and they know it," Mrs. Gavin summarized.

Granite Steel, citizens' group clarify views on 'bubble' plan

The Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corporation and the Citizens for a Better Environment—opposing parties in the plant's air pollution compliance proposal—have both issued comments following last month's public hearing on a proposal by the steel company to reduce road dust in return for relaxed standards for the company's cast house.

The hearing, conducted by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, gave the public the opportunity to vent opinions on the steel company's state application for a "bubble" permit.

The new bubble air pollution compliance plan allows companies to exceed emission regulations at some sources and provide extra control at other sources, if the mix produces the same or better quality of air within an imaginary bubble over the plant area.

The steel company, under orders to control by September half the 307 tons per year of cast house emissions, has proposed eliminating that control—putting in its place controls on road dust particles stirred from parking lots and roads.

The overall effect within the company's proposed "bubble" is expected to be 915 tons per year less air pollution emissions. Granite City Steel is the first company in this state to apply for the bubble permit.

At a public hearing June 23, the steel company and the environmental group were among less than half a dozen responding to the open forum held at Granite City Hall.

In a follow-up statement, Dr. John Manda, Granite City Steel vice president of Environmental Control, stated the alternate program, "which includes such methods as paving roads, should reduce particulate emissions (more than) seven times the reduction that would be accomplished by installing casthouse controls."

Although the cost of either controlling the cast house emissions or road dust—containing some raw and processed steel-production elements—is "about equal," Manda stated his company proposed the plan due to the "overwhelmingly greater" air emission reduction contained in the bubble plan.

"We are hopeful that the Illinois EPA will approve the 'bubble' concept for GCS which will enable us to achieve greater improvements than would be accomplished through the installation of casthouse controls," Dr. Manda stated.

The company's statement claiming the road dust can be controlled through the use of "more practical and proven methods" than can the casthouse emission controls.

"For several years, there has been much debate and experimentation with regard to how to properly control cast house emissions," Manda said at the public hearing.

Kevin Greene, a Chicago spokesman for Citizens for a Better Environment, said in a Press-Record interview after the hearing that his organization will take their case to the federal EPA if the state grants the steel company's request.

Most members from his group are from outside, but consider themselves an organization representing the entire state, he said. "We decided a few years ago we would concentrate on particulate pollution," Greene said, claiming it poses a serious health threat.

According to Greene, steelmakers are the worst offenders in particulate emissions and his group is interested in the case here, since the steel industry in this state is mainly limited to South Chicago, his base, and Granite City.

Greene said his group has been actively following the progress of "bubble" legislation, both on a state and federal level. He considers the bubble plan a loophole for companies trying to stall the latest Clean Air Act deadline of Dec. 31.

He said he intends to use Granite City's bubble plan as an example of what is wrong with the concept. The spokesman said he is not attacking the road dust clean-up efforts contained in the plan, but that such efforts are too little, too late, and should not be used in a tradeoff now.

"This should have been done ahead of time. They have to go beyond the paying before the tradeoff starts," Greene said.

He said the main elements of the federal Clean Air Act are required to be fulfilled by 1982, so the Granite City Steel casthouse would be required to comply with the act this year. He said the bubble concept allows a company to skirt the law.

In the case of Granite City, Greene said, the bubble plan would allow a further delay of its prior statutory deadline.

Greene said air quality here is already among the worst in the state. "It sticks out like a sore thumb."

The spokesman said that, if granted, the permit will allow the steel plant until 1985 to determine if the air monitors in the immediate vicinity of the plant reflect lower particulate emissions.

"The Clean Air Act has already been amended from 1977 for another five years," he said. Those who wish to submit written comments about the proposal have until July 6 to send their opinions to John Perry, Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, Division of Air Pollution Control, 2200 Churchill Road, Springfield, Ill., 62706. # Three Stooges are back

By CHARLES WEBB

There have been many great leading men in motion pictures: Clark Gable, Douglas Fairbanks, James Dean, Humphrey Bogart. But among the most popular today are Larry Fine, Curly Howard and Moe Howard — the Three Stooges.

This zany trio made their film debut in the 1933 feature "Dancing Ladies." However, the best of their early work can be found in the numerous short films they appeared in from the mid-1930s to 1941. Movies like, "A Plumbing We Will Go," "So Long, Mr. Chumps," "Disorder in the Court," "Hoi Polloi" and "Three Sappy People."

The Three Stooges never let good taste, refinement or the plot of a story stand in the way of a laugh. In fact, Curly often forgot his lines. So he compensated by making strange body movements and unusual sounds (most notably n'yuk, n'yuk, n'yuk). He was the most popular Stooge.

Unfortunately, Curly's declining health forced him to leave the trio. He was replaced by his older brother Shemp. Although a talented comedian, Shemp lacked Curly's charisma. He also looked a lot like Moe. That tended to confuse some of their fans.

By the 1950s, many of the Three Stooges short films were liberally using clips from their previous movies. Several of the last ones featuring Shemp were reportedly made after he died. A double and segments from old films were dubbed in to make it appear Shemp was present.

Former burlesque comic Joe Besser joined the group for a number of films in the late 1950s. He was soon replaced by Joe De Rita (Curly Joe).

Larry, Moe and Curly Joe made several movies, "Have Rocket, Will Travel," "The Three Stooges Meet Hercules," "The Three Stooges Go Around the World in a Daze" and "The Outlaws is Coming." Posters from these movies now typically sell for $10 to $15 each. Press books, lobby cards, 16mm trailers and other items are also sought by fans.

In addition to movie memorabilia, Three Stooges comic books are valuable. The June 1972 issue is worth approximately $20. A 3-D comic made in 1953 can bring up to $24. And the February 1949 issue is valued at $60.

A set of gum cards from the 1960s can sell for $20. Just the wrapper from such a set might bring over $3.

The value of these, and other Three Stooges collectibles, will likely increase with the group's renewed popularity.

A good place to find a buyer for any Stooges' items you have is in collector publications like "Film Collector's World," "The Antique Trader Weekly," "The Wrapper" and "Classic Images." You can also sell directly to movie memorabilia dealers.

Osgood's music is words

By DON FREEMAN

About three years ago, Charles Osgood came out with a collection of pieces, largely in rhyme, under the title: "Nothing Could Be Finer Than a Crisis That Is Minor in the Morning." The book carried the following dedication: "To Theodor Geisel (Dr. Seuss) who gave me a new way to look at the neuss."

When Charlie Osgood verifies on the CBS morning air, he reveals echoes of Oden Nash and Dorothy Parker and some of the rhythmic dash of Kipling and Robert Service and Damon Runyon and Grantland Rice. But Osgood insists that his most recent and certainly his strongest influence was Dr. Seuss.

Osgood dispatched a copy of his book to his hero, Dr. Seuss. Seuss in return sent a typically Seussian, merrily gracious note, as follows: "Nothing could be finer than to be an Osgood-inspire-ner."

Since then, Osgood has delivered himself of another volume. This one also bears a most Osgoodian title, to wit: "There's Nothing I Wouldn't Do If You Would Be My POSSLQ." The initials Osgood explains as follows: "As everyone knows, the Census Bureau invented this bit of jargon. POSSLQ — it refers to Persons of Opposite Sex Sharing Living Quarters." It did very well, this book, with a sale thus far of 40,000 copies.

When he isn't putting words to fanciful rhyme, Charlie Osgood is busier than an octopus trying to get through a revolving door. He is everywhere. There's Osgood doing the news mornings on CBS radio. And there he is doing a once-a-week piece for Dan Rather's nightly news and on Sunday nights there's Osgood with the late-night news wrap-up.

And how did that last mentioned assignment come about? "Well, Ed Bradley was doing it," says Osgood, "and then Ed replaced Dan Rather on '60 Minutes' and that left a vacancy."

"And they thought of you?"

"Uh, no, I don't think so," Osgood said. "That is, I mean, I doubt if they thought of me right away. I don't think anyone said, 'Get Osgood, he'd be perfect!'"

Now I thought of me for it and eventually I guess other people did. So far, it's been a year now and nobody's complaining. "And I'm getting recognized for it," Osgood says. "I am, you see, sufficiently ordinary looking so that I'm not readily recognized as a rule. But now people see me on the street or in a store or at an airport and they might nod pleasantly and say, 'Hello,' and they walk on, slightly puzzled, and they are thinking, 'I'm sure, that I must be an old neighbor they once knew and who has long since moved away.'"

Osgood is involved now with yet another assignment at CBS. He is contributing reports to "Walter Cronkite's Universe," that first-class science magazine which Cronkite anchors.

On behalf of science and "Walter Cronkite's Universe," Osgood is in the process of shedding 30 pounds. This contribution to the betterment of mankind and to Osgood's frame will be aired later this summer on the series.

When Charlie Osgood talks about a diet — about anything — he is compelling to listen to. He speaks with a distinctive manner. It's a voice that you would know anywhere — unstylized, without artifice. He speaks with dynamics, the musical term that applies to the shadings, the colorations of sound, the gradations between loud and soft. It is a very musical voice.

He is intrigued by the sound of the human voice. "I like the way words sound and how they flow, rhythmically. I have a bent toward music — I was a classical disc jockey once and I was an announcer for the Army Band in Washington — and I like the way the music of any sentence exists separately from its literal sense."

"Some people talk in one key and they don't sound very interesting and they wonder why not. I was listening the other day to some old Edward R. Murrow broadcasts and I noticed how he would say, 'This — is London.' He knew how to use the pause, how to talk so that you think of a musical theme with variations."

"When you think of it," Osgood said, "the first newscasters were the town minstrels, telling the happenings and playing their lutes. We're still doing the same thing."
